Anjuman College of Hotel & Tourism Management Studies & Research adheres to a well-planned curriculum delivery strategy. This strategy is drafted with an aim of ameliorating the knowledge base of students. The process begins with the meeting of Principal with all the HOD's. Post this the actual base for curriculum delivery is set. For ensuring optimum outcome college adopts a well-documented curriculum delivery strategy based on the below mentioned points.

1. ACADEMIC CALANDER

At the beginning of every semester Academic Calendar is drafted specifying dates for all the curricular and extra-curricular activities. It serves as a blue print for teacher's to align their pace of subject delivery, topics, methodology and more.

2. LESSON PLAN BASED CURRICULUM DELIVERY

The teaching staff prepares the potential lesson plan for every subject based on prescribed syllabus by the University that specifies the total number of allotted hours. These lesson plans are then drafted subject wise based on the Semester in question. Lesson Plans are also a crucial tools for tracking and monitoring of effective syllabus delivery.

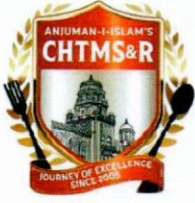

3. DEVELOPING INQUISITIVENESS ABOUT SYLLABUS

Faculty cites the author names and book names throughout lecture sessions for encouraging reading and research skills amongst students. The outcome of this is students reading reference material connected to their subjects. All the relevant subject material can be easily accessed through College's KRC (Knowledge Resources Center)

4. HANDS ON LEARNING

At Anjuman's CHTMS&R the state of the art labs foster and strengthen core theoretical concepts learned in the class by applying it in the class.

5. CLASS TESTS

Curriculum is implemented Unit wise as per the University prescribed syllabus and CHTMS&R arranges one Internal Class test at regular intervals to understand the overall hold of student in concern.

6. CONTINUOUS INTERNAL ASSESSMENT

To analyze overall grasp of knowledge gleaned by the students. College organizes CIA prior to main Semester. CIA gives insights to the student in the academic gaps that prevail.

7. CONSISTENT STUDENT COMMUNICATION

All the academic updates are communicated to students via verbal and nonverbal mode. Verbal Mode comprises personal in class communication by FIC Faculty in Charge. Non Verbal mode adopts an extensive approach and comprise;

- Regular messages on the student WhatsApp groups
- Regular posting of Circulars and notices on student whatsApp groups
- Display of relevant Circulars and notices on the College Notice boards.
- Posting of circulars and notices on parent whatsApp groups.

8. TIME TABLE

Students at college adhere to the time table drafted by College at the inception. This time table is drafted with an aim of completing prescribed number of hours for every Subject as specified in the University syllabus. Time Table aims at completing Theory as well as practical component of the syllabus.

9. ATTENDANCE TRACKER

ERP centric method of tracking student attendance supplemented by manual methods tracks attendance of students with precision. Students are encouraged to download an ERP based app on which their attendance is regularly updated by the relevant FIC Faculty in Charge.

10. REMEDIALS

Anjuman CHTMS&R believes in creation of academic level playing field for students. This level playing field is designed in the form of remedial, which means the weak students are put through an exclusive training in weak subjects by relevant FIC Faculty In-Charge.

11. PEDAGOGY

Anjuman CHTMS&R adopts blended pedagogical methods. This pedagogical methods are drafted bearing in mind the course pattern of hospitality studies.

Pedagogy includes;

- Chalk and board approach
- Audio Visual Pedagogy via extensive use of ICT
- Practical hand held learning methods

12. CO-CURRICULAR ENRICHMENT

Anjuman CHTMS&R firmly believes in enriching student's knowledge base by imparting co-curricular knowledge via regular arrangement of guest lectures by Prominent industry personnel, engaging students in field oriented project work and more.

13. FACULTY ENRICHMENT

For delivery of effective pedagogy it is important for the Faculty to be in sync with the contemporary trends. For doing this KRC at the campus plays a key role as apart from books it hosts a range of material like trade journals, research papers, conference proceedings and more. Faculty is also encouraged to participate in industry interface activities like participation in trade shows, events, virtual sessions and more.

14. PROJECTS BASED LEARNING

Field assignments are granted to the students in terms of ODC's (Outdoor Catering Events) to facilitate on field learning.

15. INTRA COLLEGIATE EVENTS

To enrich their knowledge base CHTMS&R ensures to send its students to participate in various intra collegiate events that are organized by other Colleges.

16. ONLINE AND OFFLINE SESSIONS

Seminars supplemented by webinars are regularly organized by the College to widen the conceptual understanding.

17. NOTES & REFERENCE MATERIAL

During very first year the students are given author based books by Oxford for studying core subjects like Food Production, Food & Beverage Service,

Menu Planning

UNIT 1

Introduction:

A menu or a bill of fare is a list of prepared dishes of food which are available to a customer.

Menu planning means to compose a series of dishes for a meal. Composing a good menu is an art and it needs careful selection of dishes for the different courses, so that each dish harmonizes with the other.

The planning of meals in commercial catering establishments is based more on economic considerations and reputation than on the desire to provide nutritionally "balanced diets".

The dishes produced are intended to please the eye and the palate. Menu should provide nutritious food, tempt the appetite and satisfy the guest.

Types of Menu

Table d'hote or table of the host: A fixed menu planned at a fixed price. It is a meal of 3 or 4 courses with a limited choice of dishes, and is cooked in advance. It is changed daily or may be used in rotation. Leftover food items could be used for this type of menu as it helps to economise.

Carte Du Jour or Daily Card: These are sometimes an insert in an a la carte menu, which comprises of a few special dishes of the day to vary the a la carte menu, for regular customers.

A La Carte or By the Card: To your choice. A la Carte means the presentation of a menu of a long sequence of dishes and courses. Each dish is individually priced. Dishes are cooked to order and the portions are larger than a table d'hote menu. The customer has a wide choice and should be prepared to wait for this service. Many dishes and sauces are prepared in advance except for the final finishing touches and cooking. This type of menu is normally permanent, until either prices or change of management makes it out of date.

Banquet: The menu is composed for a number of people and it is necessary to know the reason for the banquet. It is usually a formal affair and dishes should be compiled to suit the occasion. The menu is elaborate and of a high class quality. It is a fixed menu, with no choice.
